CHARLES H. VAN WYCK NOMINATED FOR CONGRESS.

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 10.—At the Republican Convention held here to-day for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Orange and Sullivan District in the XLth Congress. Gen. Charles H. Van Wyck was nominated by acciamation. A large delegation of carnest Republicans from the two counties were present, and the most positive assurances were asserted of the entire ability of the District to elect the General triumphently, and thus rid this District of its Democratic record in our Congressional souncils.

"My Policy" was greeted with utter scorn and derision. The election news of the morning undoubtedly had much to do with the general good-feeling. Several speeches were made by different delegates, and all of the most radiation of the most radiation. MEPUBLICAN MASS MEETING IN THE RIGHTEENTS After the unanimous rote given for Gen. Van Wyok's nomination, three mighty cheers were given for the nomnomination, three mighty cheers were given for the nominee and the cause.

Messrs. Cyrus B. Martin, Dr. Lawrence, J. D. Dewit Walsh, Wynkoop, Kiersted and Eli W. Fairchild were chosen a Congressional Committee for the ensuing term. Dr. William Done was called to the platform after the business was concluded, and gave some very humorous incidents connected with his campaign experience just terminated in Pennsylvanis, and the more radical the sentiments enunciated, the more vociferous was the applianse. Every reference to impartial suffrage was cheered to the echo. Put down old Orange and Sullivan for a decided Republican victory in November.

The following nominations have been made:

VERMONT.

THE MEETING OF THE LEGISLATURE-THE SENATORIAL BLECTION.

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune. MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 10.—The Vermont Legislature assembles here to-morrow. Two-thirds of the members are already in town, and both branches will be speedily organized. The Hon. John W. Stewart of Middlebury will be ized. The Hon. John W. Stewart of Middlebury will be reëlected Speaker of the House, and John H. Flagg of Bennington Clerk. Henry Clark of Poultney will be reëlected Secretary of the Senate. The election of United States Senators will take place on Tuesday, October 23. It is the general understanding that Judge Poland will be chosen to fill the unexpired term of Senator Collamer, ending March 4, 1867, the Hon. George F. Edmunds to fill the unexpired term of Senator Foote, ending March 4, 1869, and the Hon. Justin S. Morrill for the term of six years, ending March 4, 1873. All these gentlemen are Radical to the core, and carnest opponents of "My Policy," and have no fellowship with the so-called Conservative Republicans. As there are but a baker's dozen of Coppers in the Legislature, the election of Senators Poland and Edmunds, and Justin S. Morrill will undoubtedly be made with substantial unanimity. Gov. Dillingham's Message will be delivered on Friday.

ANOTHER DECAPITATION The President has removed Stlas F. Smith of Syracuse from the office of Collector of that district, and appointed Major Moscley, who was on Slocum's Staff, and who followed him over to McClellan. Thus are Republicans overywhere removed and Democrats appointed.

THE PENIANS VERSUS THE ADMINISTRATION.

Center Tansoy writes as follows to the Irishmen of Toledo, in indorsoment of the late patriotic letter of Thoman Cavan, State Center of Ohio:

As Fenians we oppose Andrew Johnson, and have cause to do so, for he encouraged the Fenian movement—he knew that the arms and ammunition to redeem our native land were purchased, and (mark this) four days previous to the Camadian movement he said to a Fenian delegation:

"Genifemen, my sympathies are not only with you, but I assure you when the blow is struck I shall interpret the law in your favor."

sure you when the blow is struck I shall interpret the law in your favor."

Seward was present and agreed with him.

Now mark the action of these men. Orders were given by the President to him to turn bodies of men out of the railread cars, and the officers of the Government authorized to arrest any leading Fenians, or any other person or persons whom the officers might suspect being Fenians—thus giving efficers power to arrest whom they leased, without authority of law. And further Gen. Mende was ordered, or at least empowered, to seize, and did seize the food which the citizens of Maione generously gave to the Fenians. In view of these facts, I say with that noble and faithful Irishman, Thomas Lavan, State Conter of the Fenian Brotherhood of Ohio, that but for the cowardly interference of the Government which had promised strict mentrality, not a red rag of Victoria would be waving on Canadhan soil to-day.

Then, brother Fenians, let us go to the polls to-morrow with that noble motto, "Freedom for all men." Your ob'dt, servant, MATHEW TANSEY, Sarsfield Circle, Toledo F. B.

THE HON. NORMAN B. JUDD NOMINATED FOR CONGRESS.

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The protracted contest in the Republican party for the nomination of Congressman from this District terminated this afternoon by the selection of Norman B. Judd. The first indication of this result was given in the election of Gen. Hasbrouck Davis, Judd candidate for Chairman. The friends of Judd then carried a resolution by a viva voce vote in the nomination of candidates, by 136 to 96. Wentworth's name was then withdrawn, and his friends united on Gen. Osborne. The first ballot for nominee stood: N. B. Judd, 144; T. O. Osborne, 85, whereapon the choice of Mr. Judd was declared unanimous. The proceedings of the Convention were remarkably turbulent, and it was attended by a large crowd of speciators. The course of The Chicago Tribune in declaring, this morning, that it would bolt the ticket if Wentworth were nominated, was freely condemned. Col. Frank Sherman is most likely to be the candidate of the Democracy.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The Republican Convention in the VIIth Congressional District to-day nominated the Hon. George S. Boutwell for reflection to Congress by acclamation.

Upon the platform were the Hon Horace Greeley, Judge Shannon of New-Orleans, Col. A. J. H. Daganne, Col. J. W. Finney, and other distinguished gentlemen.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. James M. Thompson, the President of the Club, who made a brief and appropriate appeach.

the President of the Club, who made a brief and appropriate speech.

Col. A. J. H. Duganne was first introduced.

Col. Duganne's speech was a most eloquent and spirited effort. He began by congratulating his hearwest that they were participants in the glorious triumpins of the present cra of the Republic. The hast six years of American history had been more productive of events of beneficent import for manifinal than any score of years of European history. He was especially proud to have been a soldier in the army that cranled the Rebellion, and still more proud to be a member of the great Radical party that was to conserve the results achieved by the war. The logic of facts was irresistible, but there was a growth and progress of ideas which carried a still more irresistible force. Applying this to the recent events of the quantum, the speaker drew a bright picture of the prospective career of the Republican party and of the future of the country. Col. Duganne, in conclusion, recited a poem, beginning with, career of the Republican party and of the future of the country.

Vol. Dugame, in conclusion, recited a poem, beginning with,

"Harrsh for Fennsylvanis', shaw blacing up at lest."

which was received with great enthusiasm.

The Hon. Horgee Greeley was non-introduced, and met with an enthusiastic recyclion. His remarks were in substance as follows. In the presence of the state of anything else. When the same hereon the Congress and the President first broken out, it seemed as though the people would submit to any assirpation on his part for the sake of peace and oblivion of further difference.
Since that time, now three months ago, elections have been held in seven States for Members of Congress, and the latte was made distinctly that the old Congress amount lee overrided, and that the Rebel States should be admitted and take seats in the new Congress. To effect this it was necessary to gain Representatives on the side of the President. Pennyiranta and Ohio were the States, if any, where the Conservatives might have expected to make gains. The Democrats presented a strong man there, and there was every reason to believe they would gain the victory. Both parties made a desperate atruggie, and both expected to succeed. The Republican majority in Congress is gone. They have not gained two of the 22, and we have certainly gained one. The popular cerdict is given. The nublem inde is made up that Congress is to be sustained, that it has done nothing but what is right; that it has not been too harsh or severs, but has only taken reasonable guaranties and precautions.

Mr. Greeley then briefly reviewed the propositions of the Constitutional Amendment.

Congress is one. They have not gained two of the 22, and we have certainly gained one. The popular cerdict is given, The

ELIZABETH CADY STANTON FOR CON-GRESS.

To the Electors of the Eighth Congressional District duty of benerolence between man and man, 2 teaches the harrowest selfishness in trade between nations. The Democrats, on the contrary, while holding sound and liberal principles in trade and connectee have ever in their political affiliations mulni thred the idea of class and caste among men, an idea wholly at variance with the genius of our free institutions and fatal to a high civilization. Our party fails at one point and one at another. In asking your suffrage—believing alike in free men and free trade—I could not represent either party as new constituted.

Nevertheless, as an Independent Capchilete, I desire an election at this time as a rebulke to the dominant party for its retrogressive begishring, in so manding the Constitution as to make invalious distinctions on the ground of sea.

That instrument recognizes as present all citizens who obey the laws and support the state, and if the Constitutions of the several States were brought into harmony with the broad principles of the Federal Constitution, the women of the asten without their consent. One word should not be added to that Great Charter of Eigints to the irsult or injury of the humblest of our citizens. I would gladly have a vote in the XLift Congress to demand waitersal suffrage, and thus a republican form of government might be secured to every State in the Union.

If the party now in the ascendency makes its demand for of government might be accured to every State in the Union. If the party now in the ascendency makes its demand for negro suffrage in good fait on the ground of natural right, and because the highest good of the State demands that the republican idea be indicated on no principle of justice or safety can the women of the mation be ignored.

In view of the fact that the Precisions of the South and the millions of foreigners now crowding our Western shores, most of whom represent neither property, education or civilization, are all, in the progress of events, to be cafranchised: the best interests of the nation demand that we outweigh this lacoming pauperium, incorance and degradation, with the wealth education, and refinement of the women of the republic. On the high ground of safety to the nation and pastice to its cifizens, I ask your support in the coming election.

A RIVER THIEF KILLED. HE IS SHOT DEAD WHILE STEALING COTTON-PAR-

At 61 o'clock last evening, Mr. William A. Potter, at 63 o clock last evening, aff, William A. Potter, clerk of Pier No. 13 N. R., when about to leave for the night, discovered two men in a boat in the slip in the act of stealing cotton from some bales lying upon the pier. They had previously out open the bales, and when discovered had partially filled the boat. Mr. Potter, who was standing near the previously out open the baies, and when discovered had partially silled the boat. Mr. Potter who was standing near the gangway of the steamer Marm ion of the Black Star line, at the time distant about 20 feet from the thieves, advanced a few steps toward them, when they attempted to make their escape. As they were about to push their hoat under the dock Mr. Potter drew a revolver and fired in the direction of the boat, which, then disappeared.

Search was at once made by the officers of the Twenty-seventh Preclinet and in a short time the boat was found made fast to the lower side of the dock by Officer Berrian, half filled wifn cotton. Partially hidden beneath the cotton was found the dead body of a man, who was subsequently identified as one Hanno Effrey, whom the police describe as a notorious thief. This was undoubtedly one of the men in the boat whom Mr. Porter fired at, and, as it proved, with fatal effect. The ball had entered the forehead of the thief near the bridge of the nose, and passing upward, lodged in the brain. The companion of the deceased had made his escape, after covering up the body of his companion, and concealing the boat.

At 9 o'clock Mr. Potter proceeded to the station-house in Liberty st., and delivered himself into the custody of Sergeant Whitmore. He was detained to awatt the action of the Coroner, who has been notified to hold an inquest.

Deceased was a native of France, aged 22 years, and resided at No. 198 Greenwichest. He was a very powerful man, about upon by the police of the lower procincts as a Net yangerous and successful thief. He has on many occasions been arrested—but a short time since on the charge of burglary by the Twen needed.

BOSTON BANK STATEMENT. Boston, Oct. 10 .- The following is the weekly

After gazing upon a gorgeously-brilliant sunset, it paie blinking of a newly-awakened moon. The two must be spanned by total darkness before the poetry and grace, the silvery beauty and majesty of Diana's symbol can be properly appreciated. We make this preface with no aim whatever at fine writing, but simply because we approach the subject of Judith with our eyes put out by the dazzling glare of 'Elizabeth.' We have said that as far as material persite Judith is quite as effective a play, but it is hardly necessary to add that when the material of the two is compared, the pattern of the latter looks exceedingly seant. A toreblight procession is an imposing spectacle of a very dark night; the moon is beautiful when the sun does not shine, but with the coming of dawn these things that in themselves are exceedingly fine go out because of the world's connipotent and compresent light. Ristori's Elizabeth is likewise set generis. It is so tremendous that everything immediately preceding and succeeding is east into the shade. Yet the sin cannot always be at its zenith, perpetual high water mark would mean stagnation. We cannot be everlastingly thrilled by Elizabeth, and if we were there would soon be an end to sensation. With this lecture to our emotional nature, we turn to Judith, feeling grateful for all that it gives us.

In Elizabeth—toujours Elizabeth—Ristori is unexceptionable. In Judith she is not equally great. There are times when she lots herself down from the pedextal of high art and does things of which others less than she are capable. Regarding Ristori as the one great tracip actress living, we always expect from her the loftiest and best, and ludge accordingly. This is the ordeal to which only genius of the first order can be subjected, and if Ristori does not pass through it unscathed it will merely prove that oven she is not epicee. What mortal is 'Ristori's aborteonings in Judith are nonbe but such as are easily remedied. No one but herself, for whom the part was written, could in any way do justice to the part and we feel confident that at present R pale blinking of a newly-awakened moon. The two must be spanned by total darkness before the poetry and grace, the sil-

Ristori's entrance descending the mountains to meet her e peutant people, is very fine. And what a picture she is in the purple and black drapery with her own dark brown hair falli-about her shoulders! It is not the same woman we have se herviofore. It is Judith: but we see more of Ristori for it reason that the character necessitates no artifice whateve She is indeed "of a goodly countenance and very beautiful behold."

"In ti guarda, O Ginditta e mi scompare

La quela immage tua."

Half the battle is fought and won by personal appearance. "Judith, the daughter of Merari, weakened him (Holofernes) with the beauty of her countonance. Her sandals ravished her eyes." It is immense praise to say that Ristori fully fills out our conception of tae wonderful Hebrew woman. Her relation in the first act of how she discovered the spring which is to hiring gludones to Israel, is beautifully rendered, and as she falls upon her knees in gratitude to God, there is the reality of worship in her voice and eyes. Her scene with Gottoniel is excellent, and her exit nobly statuesque.

The great moment of the second set is when intently listening to her hand, maiden's recitation from the sacred books of how Jack happy among women, shivered the creat of a thousand crowns by the driving of a nail. Judith becomes more and more excited until, inspired at the thought of herself being an instrument in the hands of the Deity, she with religious excitacy joins her voice with that of Abramia. It is grand! noble too is her reading of the Scriptures. Were all those who nacend the pulpit as fine interpreters of the book to which thair lives are devoted, there would be larger and more devout congregations. Loth as we are to say anything that is not superistively enthusiastic, we yet think Ristori emplors too much pentonime, when, after examining herself in the glass, pleased at the thought that her beauty may be the means of her couptry a salvation, she approaches her nupital robes, and gazes at them. The whole, intention is too much indicated for a character of such dignity, and is fact for any character without the limits of purely pantomimic act. Their importance of the Italian language tempts her to interpret her words by the most intelligible action. Still it is not right. Even Italians have shaken their heads at it, and when they with whom gesticulation is a prominent characteristic, object to pantomime, you may rest assured that it is superabundant. To

She is a prophetess at the electric word

Sarge,"

Arzaele at her feet and the elimeter again uplified, Ristori makes a grand historical picture—at least it would be historical were Arzaele not the creature of Giacommetr's brain. But after this we cease to be delighted. The finals of this act is not salisfactory. The scream given by Holofernes when being mardered is so much more suggestive of the animal rampoint in Cincinnati than of a human being that every feeling of solounnity disappears, nor does it return with the entrince of Abramia who is supposed to enerty the head of Holofernes under her arm. There is too much talking over the mastle which conceals the imaginary head—the elimax is not worked up grandly by the dramatist, and Ristori does not make her exit as great as it ought to be. It is the supreme moment. She does not make it nercessely glorious enough.

appears hand in hand with Holofernes, whose head but a me-most before she had borne off in wrash. It is tragedy—and the scopic lough! It is moverthy of Ristori. Did the play of fastist end with the fourth act it would gain in interest. With the death of Holofernes the culminating point is reached; after, there is a delaye of Israelites who talk to little or no purpose, so far as the suddence is concerned. The only merit of the first act is that it is short, and that at its conclusion Ristori bows lown before God, and sings "a song that is music to the ear."

"Dio e patria san ura, son telto Per noi Agli d'un nume serace: Nou s'é patria, se l'ara è mendace; Vile è il popal che muta la fe."

As Risiori declaims this verse, she looks like the spirit of Italy. The fire of patriotism burns in each word. It is such eloquence as would intoke an army. Covering herself with ber manife, Judith ascends the moun-tain, followed by Abrumia.

The curtain falls.

MEETING OF THE UNIVERSAL PEACE SOCIETY IN PHILADELPHIA.

Special Dispatch to the N. Y. Tribune.
Philameterna, Wednesday, Oct. 10, 1866

This morning at 11 o clock, the friends of Universal Peace met in the Hall of the Franklin Institute, and erganized the Pennsylvania Branch of the Universal Peace Society by the election of George W. Taylor Pance Society by the election of George W. Taylor President, and Alfred B. Justice Secretary. Mr. Taylor, on assuming the chair, stated that the object in calling the Convention together was for the purpose of organizing a State Peace Society, to act in conjunction with the Universal, as laid down in the proceedings of the Convention held at Providence, R. I., in May last. A constitution and by-laws to govern the body was adopted, after which the Society adjourned to meet with the Universal body at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Society composed of members from all parts of the country, met in the Franklin Institute Hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon, pursuant to the adjournment at Providence, R. I., May 16 last, and was called to order by the Prasident, Alfred H. Love of this city. In the absence of the Secretaries, Mrs. Elizabeth P. Chase of Mas sachusetts and E. K. Jocelyn of Providence, R. I., were appointed to act in their place and stead. Mr Love, on taking the chair, said that the objects of the Society were so well known to those present that it was almost unnecessary to enlarge upon them. He continued by saying that they invited all friends of peace and thorough peace principles, irrespective of theological or political belief, who reverently acknowledge our obligations to God and man, and who desire something better for the government of the world and the settlement of difficulties than the war power, and the spirit of hate and oppression which make for war, to cooperate with them in the promotion of the sacred cause. The reports of the different officers were then adopted.

Letters were read from Anna E. Dickinson, Dr. Joseph Parrish of Philadelphia, and others, expressing sympathy for the cause which the Society advocated. The meeting then adjourned until to-morrow morning.

INDIAN DEPREDATIONS-FIFTY MEN KILLED IN SIX PAYS-WHOLESALE PLUNDERING OF STOCK.

DAYS—WHOLESALE PLUNDRRING OF STOCK.

Receis Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

Leavenworth Wednesday, Oct. 10, 1866.

The Heleno Republican says: Gen. Sherman's dispatch from Fort Laramie to Gen. Grant was false, and he was criminally negligent of duty in sending it.

The Powder River road to Montana is infested by Indians, who are daily committing the most fearful depredations for a distance of 70 miles, between Powder River and Fort Laramie. There is hardly a mile that has not its newly-made grave to tell of a recent murder. Fifty men were killed in six days. Parties are compelled to fight against ten times their number of savages, and no one is safe unless traveling in a train of 100 or mere.

The Indians are upon the war-path in good earnest, and with their sabers, revolvers and rifles just obtained from the Treaty Council at Fort Laramie are determined to closs the Powder River route.

There are only 250 mounted men at Fort Reno. The Indians know this, and are with boldness steeling stock by the wholesale, burning trains and murdering emigrants. One man, pierced with 37 arrows, had his hands and feet cut off and body horribly mangled.

Three men descending the Missouri River, were captured, killed and scalped by the Indians. Their names were Robbins of Manne, Woodon of Minnesota, and P. W. Greeke, universe.
